Letter from the Editor

Dear respected Authors, Reviewers and Readers,

Firstly, we want you to know how much we value and appreciate you as part of our community. We have successfully faced the coronavirus pandemic together and ready for new challenges. In 2023, JDAB will be reaccredited by The Directorate General for Research Strengthening and Development, Ministry of Education, Culture, Research and Technology, Republic of Indonesia. We will also resubmit JDAB on Scopus and Web of Science in the end of 2023.

All papers published in the JDAB are fully in English with aims to reach international readers and as a crucial step to be globally recognized. In this letter, we summarize and comment on the papers to contribute to the advancement of accounting knowledge. There are 8 scholarly outputs in this issue with different kinds of empirical and analytical approaches, and contributed by researchers and scholars mainly from Indonesia.

The first paper, authored by Patricia Gabriela Christian, and Dedhy Sulistiawan on When Narcissus Became a CEO: CEO Narcissism and its Effect on Earnings Management, examines the role of CEO narcissism to earnings management. The samples are non-financial companies listed in Indonesian Stock Exchange. The findings contribute to earnings management literature by providing evidence that profitability positively affects earnings management, especially for firms with higher CEO narcissism measured by CEO publicity.

The second paper by Tubagus Algan Roiston, and Iman Harymawan on CEO Duality, Ownership, and Readability of Financial Statement Footnotes: Some Evidence from Indonesia, revealed a negative and significant relationship between CEO duality and financial statement footnotes in Indonesian non-financial firm. In addition, the relationship between CEO ownership and financial statement footnotes is positive and significant.

The third paper entitled Top Management Characteristics and Earnings Management Strategies: Evidence from Indonesia. This paper is authored by Poppy Nurmayanti, Novita Indrawati, and Emrinaldi Nur DP examines whether the strategic choice of earnings management chosen by top management is related to characteristics of top management. The results found that top management team tended to choose the strategic choice of real-based earnings management.

The fourth paper by Sansaloni Butar-Butar titled Managerial Characteristics and Investment Efficiency: Evidence from Indonesian Listed Companies, examines the effect of managerial characteristics on investment efficiency. More specifically managerial capabilities, reputation and its interaction effect are expected to increase investment efficiency. The results show that reputation is not significantly associated with investment efficiency.

The followed paper entitled Biological Assets and Firm Value: Do Fair Value Measurement and Disclosure Matter? is authored by Naupal Alfarsiyi, Yossi Diantimala, Rizal Yahya, and Muhammad Saleh. This study aims to investigate whether value of biological assets measured by fair value and disclosure of biological assets has influence on firm value. This research focuses on the impact of the application of Indonesian statement of financial standard No. 69 regulating fair value of assets and disclosure of biological assets on firm value. This study found that value of biological assets measured by their fair value has a significantly positive effect on firm value, while the disclosure level of biological assets does have impact on firm value.

The sixth paper by Utpala Rani, Octavia Lhaksni Pramudyastuti, and Agustina Prativi Nugraheni entitled How Do Indonesian Listed Companies Disclose Information Related to Whistleblowing? evaluates how Indonesian public listed companies (PLCs) facilitate whistleblowing and the extent to which they disclose its implementation through annual reports. This study found the companies prefer annual reports than website as the medium to disclose whistleblowing-related information. This study revealed the interconnection between organization features and whistleblowing system.

The seventh paper entitled The Impact of Trust on the Relations between Ethical Leadership and Internal Whistleblowing Intention authored by Andriati Fitriningrum, Andrey Hasiholan Pulungan, Ni Made Ayu Diah Pradnya Dewi, and Nadya Nurul Imani. The aim of this study is to examine the impact of trust on the relationship between ethical leadership and internal whistleblowing intention. This study unveiled that the length of working periods determines the trust development. Meanwhile, feelings are key to an affective trust that influences ethical leadership to encourage the willingness of organization members to intentionally whistleblowing misconduct or unethical action internally.

The last paper authored by Winwin Yadiati, Prasojo Prasojo, Inon Listyorini, Ifah Rofiqah, and Rosyid Nur Anggara Putra on Human Capital, Quality of Sharia Supervisory Board and Maqasid Shariah Based Performance: Cross Country Evidence, examined the relationship between human capital (HC), quality of the shariah supervisory board (SSB) and performance of maqasid shariah-based Islamic banks. This study revealed that HC has a significant and positive influence on sharia maqasid-based performance.

To end this letter, we would like to express our sincerest gratitude to all the contributors of this issue for raising the level of academic discourse in the field of accounting and business. We are grateful as well to our professional reviewers for their service and dedication in critically evaluating papers worthy of being published.
